

Women's needs in Haiti's affected areas

Needs:

Risk of maternal deaths increasing

Over 540,000 women

are of childbearing age, and expected to require health services.

13,650 women due to give birth in the next three months. Among them, 15% projected to have complications and need emergency obstetric care.

23 health facilities damaged out of the 26 visited during joint assessment.

10,920 women, girls

risk experiencing sexual violence in hurricane-hit area.

No private spaces

From UNFPA's assessment, in the temporary shelters, there is no space solely for women and girls, or any space to wash and change in privacy.

Response:

261 reproductive health kits

will be distributed by UNFPA.

390,000 people could benefit from the kits

mostly pregnant women, girls and adolescents.

2 mobile clinics

UNFPA is deploying two mobile clinics in Grand'Anse and Nippes to provide reproductive health services to the affected population.

UNFPA-trained midwives

will be deployed in affected areas.

Post-rape treatment, care

UNFPA and partners working to ensure that health facilities are equipped with post-rape treatment drugs and protocols. They are also working to provide psychosocial support and safe spaces.

Gaps:

Maternal health is critically underfunded. UNFPA has developed a response plan to cover the reproductive health needs of affected population in six months.

Goal: $2.7 million
